Technical Writing | Documentation | Training

I document software I build and ship, and I deliver the training a night operation runs on. Markdown, Git, pull request review and release gates are my working tools, not a course I took. I write for the person who is stuck, not for the person who already knows.

EXPERIENCE

F-Keys Creative LLC | Founder, Software and Documentation | 2021-Present

- Author and maintain the documentation for published Python and JavaScript packages: install guides, tool and API reference, troubleshooting, and release notes.
- Documentation lives in Git beside the code and ships through the same review. Automated checks run on every release and stop a broken page or a stale example before it reaches a reader.
- Build and run the products the documentation covers, including opticquiz.com, trailer-load.com, poticas.com and 5best2buy.com. I read the code I document because I wrote it.
- Design and run a content engine that holds every published page to a written standard.

- Deposited research with assigned DOIs, written to be read by people who did not run the experiment.
